Independent Research

Key Finding #1:

Decrease in aggression

Aggressive children are at higher risk of depression, suicide attempts, alcohol and drug abuse, violent crimes, and neglectful and abusive parenting.

(Tremblay et al., 2004)

Key Finding #2:

Increase in social and emotional understanding

Students who participate in SEL programs have lower levels of stress and depression, fewer conduct problems and aggression and do better academically.

(Payton et al., 2008)

What does this mean for mental health?

- Poor emotional regulation skills are involved in most childhood and adult psychopathologies (i.e., depression, anxiety, conduct disorder).
- Increased understanding of emotions helps children to regulate their emotions and reduces their risk for negative mental health outcomes.

(Zeman, Shipman and Suveg, 2002)
